Dear parents and children, I greet you all. It is so amazing to write to you again, and I hope you are glad to read my article. First of all, in science we looked at intestinal worms which marked the end of science syllabus for primary four 2007, we said intestinal worms are parasites which live in our body. In mathematics, we looked at Weight and we defined weight as a force of gravity on an object. In English, we looked at an interesting Dialogue called” A GOAT TO THE MARKET” and in Social Studies as usual we were on revision. Have a nice CHOGM month!

Reception Class

Last week, we were doing serious revision since we are to begin our promotional examinations. We would like to inform our parents whose children are always absent, that they may end up missing Examinations. We still congratulate some families which have tried to get new family members like Kedi's family, Mubiru Charles's family and others who did not communicate.

Middle Class

We are happy to inform you that the whole of the last week we have been busy with revision of what we had learnt for the whole of this term. We are really happy with West Ewell members' performance because they were in the position of remembering most of the things we taught. We also want to inform you that we have begun doing our End of year Examinations 2007. So; you should all children to school so that they don't miss their promotional examinations. Thank you.
